FAMILY MATTERS

Even in this time of uncertainty, we can always count on spring to give way to a beautiful Tennessee summer. Sunny days and long, relaxing evenings have us all looking for any excuse to get outside. These fun, easy, and socially-distant activities are sure to have your little ones stretching their legs—and their imaginations!

- Adopt a Pet Rock: A pet rock can be a fun companion for your child and can even help them learn the responsibility of owning a pet. All you need is a rock from the yard and a little paint!
- Enjoy a Family Picnic: Bring lunch outside! Set up a blanket, some paper plates, and some fun summer treats. It's a great way to enjoy the beautiful weather close to home.
- Go on a Treasure Hunt: A treasure hunt is a fun way to get your child outside and exploring their environment. Write clues on slips of paper, hide them around your yard, and help your children find some hidden treasure!
- Build an Obstacle Course: An obstacle course is a great way to promote balance and coordination. Use objects like buckets, hula-hoops, and other household items to build an engaging obstacle course in your yard or garage.
- Make Homemade Bubbles: No need to go to the store, these bubbles can be made at home! Just combine 2 cups of warm water, 1/3 cup of dish soap, and 1/4 cup of corn syrup.
- Get Artsy with Chalk: Not all art is done on paper! Bring some chalk out to the driveway or sidewalk and get creative. Draw a self-portrait, play some hopscotch or foursquare, or even tic-tac-toe!
